

The 39th Annual Annie Awards

Presented by the International Animated Film Society, ASIFA-Hollywood

Advertising and Sponsorship Information

On February 4, 2012, the International Animated Film Society, ASIFA-Hollywood, will present the 39th Annual Annie Awards, at UCLA's Royce Hall, in Los Angeles, California.

Honoring excellence in the field of animation, Annie awards will be presented in 28 categories recognizing outstanding achievements in animated theatrical features, television productions, television commercials, short subjects, video games, as well as individual achievements.

The Annie Awards provides one of the most innovative platforms for animation partners to participate in these high-profile awards and market their goods and services. There's no better way to reach animation industry insiders—from top studio brass to production executives, animation artists, students and fans of the art form — than in the pages of the annual Annie Awards program. A glossy keepsake chronicling the evening celebration and the year's winners, the program offers a range of ad options. For those looking to support the event and highlight their businesses in an even larger way, sponsorship packages offer myriad high-profile benefits.

The deadline to reserve an advertisement in the program book or to become a sponsor is December 16, 2011. The deadline to receive artwork for the Annie Award program book is January 13, 2012.

The Annie Awards have long been recognizing pioneers at the forefront of animation, through nominations, juried awards, and certificates of merit. In 1972, legendary voice actor June Foray organized the very first Annie Awards. Today, supported by major animation studios and production companies, The Annie Awards have grown into a much-heralded industry event and are considered an important industry benchmark and a predictor of the Academy Award for Best Animated Feature. For further information about the Annie Awards, please visit www.annieawards.org.

ASIFA-Hollywood, the largest of an international network of chapters, supports a range of animation initiatives through its membership. Current projects include an animation archives, library and museum, special animation events and film preservation efforts. ASIFA is the French acronym for L'Association Internationale du Film D' Animation (International Animated Film Association), an organization founded in 1957 in France by a group of professional animators and chartered by UNESCO in 1960 to encourage the art of animation and further international understanding and goodwill through the animation medium. Today, there are ASIFA chapters in nearly thirty countries worldwide.
